Pamplin

Pamplin, Aug. 4.- Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Andes, of Bealton, spent Sunday in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Black.

Week-end visitors in the home of Mrs. H. T. Terry were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wingfield, of Richmond, and Mrs. B. A. Chandler, of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Bessie Mattox spent last week with relatives in Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Slayton and son, C. W. Jr., spent several days last week at Morehead, N. C.

Mrs. L .L. Dickerson spent several days last week with her daughter, Mrs .George Walliamson, of Lynchburg.

Misses Mary Wilson McClenny and Sarah Ina Wayne spent last week at Camp Viewmont, Charlottesville.

Mrs. W. G. Garrett visited friends at Rice last week.

Miss Jane Andrew Williams is spending this week at the 4-H Camp at Holliday Lake.

Mr. Kermit Garrett and little daughter, of Lynchburg were Sunday visitors in the home of his mother, Mrs. W. G. Garrett..

Mrs. Henry Covington was hostess to the Business Women's Circle of Elon Baptist Church Monday night.

Commander H. P. Lair Sr., U.S.N. and Mrs. Lair, of Princess Anne, Virginia, have purchased the farm and home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Harwood, and will take possession on or about August 7th.

The old Harwood place has been in the immediate family for approximately 90 years, occupied by members of the family with the exception of one brief interval. Mr. and Mrs. Harwood are leaving this week on an extended automobile trip, during which they plan to visit relatives in California, taking in places of interest in many states on their way to the west coast and back.

The Lairs have already met a number of their neighbors in this section and are fast making friends here. They are looking forward to establishing themselves as permanent members of the community.

SOUTHSIDE CO-OP TO HAVE MEETING

More than 15,000 rural Virginians, members of the Southside Electric Cooperative, are invited to attend the 22nd annual meeting of the membership to be held in Crewe on Saturday, August 29. It is an all-day meeting.

FARM NEWS

By Jim Smith, County Agent

Fall Seeding Time

Fall seeding of pasture and alfalfa has ravired.

Fall seeding of pasture may be more effective than spring seedings in that there is less competition from weeds and it may be grazed somewhat earlier the following year. Orchard grass and fescue have their place in a pasture program, but do not mix the two. Either of these grasses make good pastures when ladino clover is added.

Alfalfa remains the highest quality roughage available to farmers. It has a place on many farms. Seeded this month, will provide hay next year.

Feeder Calf Sales Scheduled

Cattle owners should be making plans for the fall feeder sales. More than 30,000 calves will be sold through the feeder calf auction sales this fall in Virginia.

The Lynchburg feeder calf sale will be held on October 1 and the yearling sale on October 22.

All calves entered must be vaccinated for shipping fever and blackleg, and heifers must come from herds that have had a negative test for tuberculosis and Bangs within the past twelve months.

What value is there in selling through a feeder sale is an often asked question. The answer is quite simple — calves bring more money through feeder sales.

Corn Variety Demonstration

Three farmers in Appomattox County are currently testing one or more varieties of corn on their farms. These varieties may appear on the recommended list in the next few years, therefore, growers interested in new varieties may want to "take a look."

J. C. Caldwell, Jr., Spout Spring, has a new VPI variety. B. C. Massey, Pamplin, and Fred Jones near Spring Mill, will have six varieties of Pioneer growing.

The feature speaker at the meeting will be Erwin H. Will, president of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and President of the Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates. He is a past president of the Virginia Electric and Power Company and now chairman of its executive committee and vice-chairman of the board of directors.

The entertainment will be , by popular demand, a return engagement by Minnie Pearl of Grand Ole Opry fame. She was the feature at the 1958 annual meeting of the Southside Electric Cooperative, and will be the guest entertainer for the annual meeting this month.

Presiding over the program will be O .S .Williams, of Lawrenceville, the president. His report will tell the story of progress of the Cooperative during the past year.

The report of C. S. Hooper, Jr., the manager, will point out the problems with which the cooperative has been faced and the steps which have been taken to solve thes problems and increase the service to the members in the 17 counties serviced by the system.

The report of the treasurer will emphasize the financial condition of the cooperative. The directors will be present to meet with members from the areas each represents and to answer questions about the progress and operation of the cooperative.

Registration will start at 8 o'clock at the Crewe ball park, and the business part of the program will get under way shortly after 9 o'clock. There will be prizes for the early comers to the meeting.

After the reports there will be a period for questions dealing with any subject of general interest to the membership.

In FASHION now

At least one famous milliner feels that milady's hat should be an emotional experience for her. We feel that this is entirely possible after seeing a preview of what we will be wearing this fall and winter. We must add that the prices may be quite an emotional experience for the old man.

There is emphasis on the fedora derby, bowler, and even pork pie shapes that go with the tailored look that will be so big in women's fashions. This borrowed look is much softened by color, rich fabrics, and intricate folds and trimming.

Milliners avoid the term "man inspired," and describe their creations as this: Greta Garbo - Marlene Dietrich brand of appeal associated with the slouch shapes.

Fur hats and bags are news.

There is nothing more flattering against the face than the softness of sable, mink or fox. The new shape for the fur hat is tall and peaked.

The beloved sculptured turban remains a favorite this year, but with a new twist. Indented slightly at the crown, the turban rises high to a peak and is sometimes elaborated with jewelled embroidery.

Evening hats remain small and head hugging. They are bejewelled, befeathered, and bewitching.

Hair styles to go with these new hats are brushed with smooth crowns and soft, open curls at the end. Hair will be slightly longer on the sides and slightly shorter in the back than it was last season. Really long hair twisted high on the back in the back is a favorite evening style.

Homemakers Items

A revision of the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs cookbook, "Recipes of Old Virginia," is now available.

Presenting many recipes not found in the first edition, the revision also lists oven temperatures, and has the ingredients of recipes arranged in the order in which they are used.

Mrs. Esther Nickolson, Norfolk, state cookbook chairman for the Federation says that more than 1,-100 members of home demonstration clubs contributed recipes — recipes that have been "passed down" from one generation to another. Each recipe was tested time and time again under ordinary home kitchen conditions by members and friends of the Federation. Members of the cook book committee, in addition to Mrs. Nicholson, are Mrs .Frank S. Shomaker, of Henrico County; Mrs. T. A. Harris, of Elizabeth City, Mrs. W. L. Dunn of Chesterfield, and Mrs. E. J. Clifton, of Washington County. Advisors are Miss Jenet Camerson and Mrs. Mary Thompson, nutritionist, and associate nutritionist, respectively for the VPI Agricultural Extension Service, and Miss Mary Walker, Henrico County home demonstration agent.

A total of 45,000 copies of the first edition were printed, Mrs .Nicholson said. The price of the revised cookbook is $2.50.

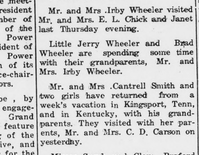
Hot Dog!



Be you six or sixty the news that franks are on the cards for a picnic is almost sure to bring a grin of anticipation. But wait until you taste them with this good, easy and so-different relish!

Hot Dog Relish

2 cups chopped ripe tomato
2 cups chopped green tomato
2 cups chopped cucumber
1 cup chopped onion
1 sweet red pepper
1 teaspoon cloves
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1½ cups vinegar

Wash and drain vegetables. Scald, core, and peel ripe tomatoes. Core but do not peel green tomatoes. Cut blossom ends from peppers; discard seed. Peel onion. Grind vegetables or squeeze to remove juice—saves cooking time.

Mix all ingredients and cook until the liquid is as thick as Chili Sauce. Taste and add more seasoning if desired. Watch it! If too highly seasoned the relish will mask rather than enhance the flavor of frankfurters and wieners. For a delicious relish into hot fruit jar. Put dome lid on jar; screen ban

Rites Here Friday Afternoon For C. Kendall Hunter

. . . C. Kendall Hunter

C. Kendall Hunter, 63, prominent Appomattox citizen, died yesterday morning in Duke University Hospital, after an extended illness.

Funeral rites will be conducted Friday at 2:00 P. M., from the Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church, with interment in Liberty Cemetery. The body will be at Robinson Funeral Home until one hour before the service.

Chapman Kendall Hunter was born May 3, 1896, in Appomattox, son of the late Charles W. and Lizzie Jones Hunter. He was educated locally in private and public schools and then continued his studies at Virginia Military Institute, Lexington. Upon the entry of the nation into World War I, he entered the U. S .Army, and served with the rank of First Lieutenant.

He began a business career after World War I, and subsequently returned to his native Appomattox, where he engaged in farming, cattle and timber, and lumber enterprises. He set up The Hunter Lumber Company, and later the Oakland Frame and Lumber Co., Appomattox Coal Co., and other local activities.

He was chairman of the Board of Deacons of Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church.

He was a member of the Board of Directors of The Bank of Appomattox. He was a charter member and Past President of Appomattox Lions Club, and was a Past District officer in that organization.

He was a past member of Appomattox Town Council, and in the June 9 election was elected to another term. He was a member and chairman of the County Selective Service Board during World War II. He was Past Master of Monroe Masonic Lodge No. 301. Also, he was a charter member of Appomattox Post 104, of the American Legion, was Past Commander, Past District Commander, and Past National Committeeman.

He is survived by his wife, Emma Young Hunter; one son, C. K. Hunter, Jr., of Appomattox; two grandchildren, Edward Brett Hunter and Karen Lea Hunter; two brothers, C. Evant Hunter, Roanoke, and Duval W. Hunter, High Point, N. C. and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Willis, of Fredericksburg.

Attendance Up For "The Common Glory"

Williamsburg, Va.- Attendance at "The Common Glory" — now at the midway point in its summer - long season — is ahead of last year's attendance.

According to Roger Sherman, the general manager for the outdoor drama, a total of 21,747 people have viewed "The Common Glory" so far this season despite the fact that last month was the rainest July in Williamsburg since 1945. Now in its 13th consecutive season, "The Common Glory", which is presented nightly except Mondays at the Lake Matoaka Amphitheatre on the William and Mary campus, will play through September 6.

The 1959 season is the second longest in the drama's history. A total of 66 performances are scheduled; generally between 58 and 60 shows are slated. In 1950, the season ran for 68 performances.

During the first 33 performances this year rain fell in Williamsburg immediately before or during the show almost nightly. Only one performance has been rained out, however; it was the July 2 show.

"Audiences have come prepared for rain," Sherman said. "People bring raincoats and umbrellas and are determined to see the show — even if it means sitting through some light rain. Their determination has been an inspiration to the cast members."

Hard To Explain

Centralia, Ill.- It took a lot of explaining, but Engineer Charlie Mathis finally convinced an Illinois Central Railroad dispatcher that his passenger train struck a camel near this small town.

When Mathis phoned in the accident report, the dispatcher asked if maybe he hadn't hit a pink elephant, too. It turned out the camel belonged to a circus set up too close to the tracks. The animal suffered only an injured leg.

6,000 CONFEDERATES BURIED IN CHICAGO

Confederate Monument,
Oak Woods Cemetery
1035 East 67th St., Chicago, Ill. .

By M. E. Harris
Chicago, Illinois

(Editor's note: We are indebted to Miss Addie Purcell, a leader in the Virginia Division of the United Daughters of The Confederacy, for the following interesting article, of special interest as we approach the Civil War Centennial Years).

The Confederate Monument marks the spot where 4,000 Confederate Soldiers and Sailors are buried, who died in Camp Douglas, of smallpox. Twelve Federal Soldiers, who also died with the Confederate Soldiers, have twelve stones marking their graves near the Monument.

The Monument is erected in the center of an oval plot, with axes 275 feet and 500 feet, in Oak Woods Cemetery, bought by the United States Government, in which to bury the Camp Douglas military dead, and was constructed by the Southern Confederacy, of Confederate Soldiers, Hill, Georgia. It is nearly forty feet in height, including the bronze soldier eight feet high. The Monument was designed by John C. Underwood, a member in 1891, of Camp No. 8, United Confederate Veterans, Chicago.

Permission was granted from the Secretary of War, under President Arthur's administration and the work of beginning to raise money to build the Monument over the thousands of Southerners beneath the sod was started.

The Government lot for many years was covered by a thicket of undergrowth and trees. The concentric mounds of the trench graves were first decorated by Col. E. R. E. Koch, and the two Grand Army Posts of Chicago, and Englewood, in 1876 and ever since have received the attention of brave men, women and children. The remains of the soldiers were first interred near the prison inclosures and afterward exhumed and crossed the city at night to

NEW 4-H BEEF AWARD PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Four-H club members in Virginia are taking a second look these days at their beef animal projects with an eye on one of the awards for the first time by a major sponsor.

Announcement of the new beef award program is made by state 4-H officials at VPI, who say that nationally it is estimated that 136,-000 members will be enrolled in the beef program this year. They learn about breeds, balanced rations, and marketing. They are taught to fit, show, and judge animals, and many young cattle raisers have banked a sizeable profit from a well-managed beef project, using the funds for college, a down payment on a farm, or both.

Recovers Stolen Truck

Flagstaff, Ariz.- Walking along the street, Glenn McNeese saw his stolen pickup truck with a stranger at the wheel.

He borrowed a car, and chased the truck. Six miles from town he forced the truck to the side of the road, climbed in, and drove the occupant to jail.

Carelessness is a great killer in the home and on the highway.
